RDRM can have a e-magazine about all the ongoing projects/completed project of the University - This can also be uploaded on the website. - This will help in getting more proposals and also can give visibility to the University Projects.

I have attended online sessions that teach how to develop a MOOCs course and it is not a one-week or one-month job. It takes a minimum 6 months to develop a course if done individually, i.e. planning the lecture, preparing presentations accordingly, writing dialogues and then recording. Hence, dedicated time is required which is difficult to find during regular classes. I am slowly going to start this during this term (i.e. Sem II and IV) and would like to do it completely during summer vacation or by next year. I can discuss it with my colleagues and if anyone is interested in doing it in collaboration, then the work can be divided and it would be easier.

First, increase the infrastructure. Provide proper infrastructure before implementing. But we have already implemented it, and we are facing problems. For eg., during last semester, we had three or sometimes four classes being conducted simultaneously for Part II and Part I students due to providing many optional courses for them, but we had only one classroom allotted for the Marine Microbiology Program. So we had to go searching for free classrooms in the building or often conduct classes in our sitting room. Towards the end of last semester, we were allotted one more classroom so that searching stress was reduced a bit. Similarly, the Optional courses which are supposed to be Open to all the students, cannot be implemented completely because we can offer only Theory courses but not the Practical course of the same paper due to lack of laboratory facilities. We have only one laboratory allotted to conduct Practicals for Part I and II, the dissertation of Part II and the research of Ph.D students.

PG students often complain about lack of lab facilities as Marine Microbiology Program is equipped with just one laboratory where all practicals, dissertation and Ph.D. work gets carried out. Therefore since semester 4 for PG students is almost entirely Research oriented, providing such facilities should be of prime concern.

I have attended a short term course of e content developments that provided a fair idea of how to develop a mooc's course. It is not plain recording of lectures and involves writing of dialogues, script, preparing short 10 min concept presentations. After discussing with my Dean, I have decided to float a new paper entirely for Mooc's course development purpose which will not be floated for regular PG students. Since i am in process of setting the syllabus for the same, I have not yet developed the said course.

I believe that the students Aadhaar card which is needed to register on the ABC platform needs to be updated as many of them were made when the student was a child and it is difficult to get a token to be able to do the updation of the same. If every college sets up a booth on a particular day or two to update the aadhaar card of the students. the issue would be resolved. There has been a big rise in the number of people approaching the Aadhaar Seva Centers to do the same. And as the student has to be physically present during the restricted hours of the availability of these Seva Centers, the student has to forgo classes to do so.

Let us understand that every student may not be interested in research. Since number of students doing research project per faculty is large, quality of the research may not be good. For quality research, we need more faculty in the schools. With only PG programme, number of faculty will be small. So schools should have UG and PG programme, so number of faculty will be large, more number of students will be exposed to research.

NEP is a pathbreaking policy. It cannot be implemented keeping in view the old system. At the undergraduate level, students should be given a wider choice of subject combinations. In the first year of the undergraduate programme, emphasis should be on students exploring their affinity to different subjects and choosing the one they feel inclined to the most.

At least till the implementation covers the full spectrum of higher education ,from FY BA/BSc to PG, the dissertation be made optional. Not every student is inclined to do or has the aptitude for research, nor it is necessary that everyone does research. Even those who wishes to do dissertation at PG need a good orientation towards that and this needs to be achieved through their graduation under NEP. Also going by the spirit of NEP it should be a student's choice than a compulsion

1. Suggestions to strengthen the components outlined in the NEP implemented

1. Kindly provide suggestions to strengthen the components outlined in the NEP implemented at Goa University : *

The NEP is oriented towards creating an employable human resource through education. The output of the University in terms of the human resource can be strengthened when we can identify the necessary general competencies needed for employment as well as the domain-specific competencies in the respective areas of study of the course participants. The Board of Studies needs to identify these competencies and incorporate them in the course outcomes after linking them to the Knowledge-Skill-Attitude component of the syllabus developed in the respective courses.

The Summer Internship Component for the UG Programme should be industry based even in the Social Science and Literature fields. This can be done by closely involving the industry in the functioning of the course inclusive of visiting faculty sessions, module handling by the industry as well as guest speaker sessions compulsorily in each course. That way the industry is also aware of the inputs given to their prospective employees and will enhance the Industry-Academia interaction further

The University Examination system involving evaluation of learning outcomes needs to be revisited and appropriate methods of evaluation need to be considered. Currently the system is centralized and standardized which may not be suitable for the NEP spirit and ethos. This is vital for the University to see that participants of the various courses are skilled enough to participate in economic activities after their education.
