The objectives / description of the activity (50 words)	1) Getting familiar with Eviews: Registration, Features. 2) Demonstrating using Eviews the measures used for: a. Organizing and Describing the data. b. Analysing relationships, prediction and Testing the data. Professor Narayan Parab led the EViews session on February 19, 2024, to familiarize students with the software's graphical user interface and basic econometric analysis capabilities. Students were first given an overview of EViews before being taught data importation procedures. Subsequently, emphasis was placed on data management techniques such as data cleaning, variable transformation, and variable generation within the EViews environment, emphasizing the importance of diligent data preparation to ensure the integrity of the analyses. This session covered a wide range of tests required for econometric research, including graphical representation and descriptive statistics
