Golaka C. Nath is presenting

Challenges Before Global Economy - Dr. Golaka C. Nath

"Globalization is a fact of life. But I believe we have underestimated its fragility," United Nations Secretary-General Kofi Annan told the World Economic Forum almost a quarter century ago.

Today, the fragility of the liberal international trade system that brought peace and prosperity since the end of the Cold War is all too evident.

Some policymakers, viewing globalization as a threat to domestic industries and national security, seek to reduce their reliance on precarious global supply chains. (China decoupling in Europe and US) => Korea did to Vietnam in Mobile phones industry)

Even countries that once championed free trade are turning inward to isolate from rivals and secure strategic supplies of everything from computer chips to rare earths.

THE STRESS RESPONSE

I. General Adaptation Syndrome (GAS)

A. Stress as a response

- Hans Selye (1956), a pioneer and father of stress research has made a huge contribution in the area of stress.
- He found that the biological pattern of human body is predictable, when an individual adapts to external stressors, it can aid in maintaining and restoring homeostasis of the individual.
- The hormonal system is used by the body to maintain or restore homeostasis, which is also termed as the stress response.
